CONTAINER TRUCKING SERVICES LICENCE.....	7

Introduction

The 2024 Container Trucking Services Licence (“Licence”) will expire on November 30, 2026. The Office of the British Columbia Container Trucking Commissioner (“OBCCTC”) is proposing the following amendments to the licence that will be effective December 1, 2026.

The proposed changes are designed to:

- Provide greater stability through an extended licence term.
- Modernize payroll practices to reduce fraud and ensure timely payment of drivers.
- Clarify and streamline licence conditions through housekeeping amendments.

This consultation document includes a summary of the proposed changes and a marked copy of the proposed CTS Licence.

Consultation Process

The consultation document is provided for stakeholder discussion and submissions. A final licence package will be issued following consultation.

The submission period is open until 4:00pm on February 9, 2026. Submissions can be sent to the OBCCTC at registrar@obcctc.ca.

Submissions will be posted on the OBCCTC website.

Timeline for Consultation

Written submission period January 12 - February 9, 2026	The OBCCTC will invite stakeholders to submit their written submissions.
Final consultation report published March 9, 2026	The final consultation report will be published based on feedback received during consultation.

Executive Summary

The proposed changes to the Container Trucking Services (“CTS”) Licence are aligned with the purpose of the Container Trucking Act (“Act”) and the Container Trucking Regulation (“Regulation”) to bring about continued stability in the drayage sector. The OBCCTC is proposing the amendments to the licence that will be effective December 1, 2026. These changes reflect the Commissioner’s mandate to strengthen compliance, protect drivers, and modernize industry practices.

Ensuring drivers are paid in a timely manner and the proper classification of drivers were major recommendations in the Ready/Bell Report. Administrative penalties have been issued in a number of decisions where excessive delays in payment and misclassification of drivers have been found.

Key highlights include:

1. Licence Term
 - A new three-year licence term, the longest licence term since the Container Trucking Act came into effect in 2014.
2. Electronically Transmitted Wage Statements and Electronic Funds Transfer
 - Mandatory electronic wage statements and direct deposit of wages to eliminate paper-based discrepancies, reduce payroll fraud, and ensure drivers are paid promptly.
 - Licensees and I/Os who employ IEOs to provide CRA Payroll deduction account numbers.
3. Housekeeping Changes
 - Administrative updates to clarify licence conditions
 - Compensation reporting, sponsorship agreements
 - Independent Operator obligations
 - Corrections to grammatical and typographical errors

Stakeholders are encouraged to review the proposed changes. A marked copy has been provided for ease of review.

Any changes will be put into effect on December 1, 2026.

CTS Licence Changes

Licence Term

The OBCCTC is proposing a three-year licence term. This would be the longest licence term issued since the Container Trucking Act came into effect in 2014.

Electronically Transmitted Wage Statements and Electronic Funds Transfer

In 2022, amendments to the licence were introduced as part of the OBCCTC's efforts to modernize and professionalize record keeping practices and increase compliance in the industry. These changes included the requirement to keep and maintain electronic payroll records.

However, the digital trail did not extend to records provided to drivers and resulted in a missed opportunity to further reduce the risk of underpayment of drivers. Discrepancies between the electronic payroll information provided by the licensee to auditors and the paper records provided by licensees to their drivers have been identified over the course of audits and investigations. Licensees have manipulated payroll records presented to auditors while providing inconsistent information through paper records to their drivers. see [Super Star Trucking Ltd. \(CTC Decision No. 10/2025\), Quality Forest Products Ltd. \(CTC Decision No. 8/2025\), Embassy Transportation Inc. \(CTC Decision No. 09/2025\)].

Extending the electronic record-keeping requirements by eliminating paper cheques will enhance compliance and benefit drivers. Electronic transmission of wage statements and electronic fund transfers ("EFT") of wages will create an instant digital trail of how, when and for what drivers are paid and prevents licensees from altering or erasing information after it has been provided to their drivers.

Electronic transfer of funds also assists with ensuring drivers are paid within the timeframe set out in the Regulation. When licensees pay their drivers by paper cheque, drivers need to either pick up their cheque in person or wait for them to arrive in the mail. EFT cuts these steps out when payments are transferred directly into the driver's account. Once the funds are deposited, the updated balance will be available through the licensee's online banking platform and can be submitted to the auditor. A licensee's electronic banking information can more easily be compared against a driver's electronic banking information.

Licensees who employ Directly Employed Operators and Independent Operators who employ Indirectly Employed Operators are required to have a CRA payroll deduction and WorkSafe BC accounts to confirm they are the employer and to ensure the driver is properly classified under the Container Trucking Act and Container Trucking Regulation (see Driver Misclassification Bulletin).

Many licensees already use EFT to pay drivers (e.g. direct deposit) and provide wage statements via email. Extending this modern approach to payroll delivery to all licensees is consistent with the OBCCTC's mandate to ensure compliance within the industry.

Housekeeping Changes

There are a number of housekeeping changes to the 2026 licence

1. The information the licensee is required to record has been clarified under Appendix D to Schedule 1 of the CTS licence.
2. The compensation and reporting requirements in Appendix E to Schedule 1 have been clarified.
3. The following definitions have been added: "Electronic Funds Transfer", "Electronically Transferred", "Payroll Records", "Rate Order", and "Wage Statement".
4. Sponsorship Agreement requirements have been clarified.
5. Licensees and Independent Operators who hire Indirectly Employed Operators must report CRA Deduction number and WorkSafe BC number to demonstrate they are the employer.
6. I/O record-keeping requirements consistent with licensee requirements have been added.
7. Grammatical and typographical errors have been corrected.
8. Consequential renumbering.

Next Steps

The closing date for stakeholder submissions is February 9, 2026, no later than 4:00pm.

Once consultation is complete, the OBCCTC will issue a final copy of the 2026 CTS licence.
